Prepped empowers food entrepreneurs, particularly individuals who identify as women and underrepresented minorities, with the tools and skills to scale their businesses. If you run an early stage or emerging food business such as catering, food and beverage truck or cart, or farmers market products such as baked goods, Prepped is here to provide you free immersive training in the business skills you need to succeed.

Prepped provides training from ASU experts and successful food entrepreneurs on topics such as:
- Food handling.
- Certification preparation.
- Business planning, including food costing.
- Social media and marketing planning.
- Food writing and more.

Our Prepped food entrepreneurs are available for catering ASU and external events. By hiring a Prepped entrepreneur, you will not only enjoy delicious food and excellent service, but also help local businesses thrive.

For questions about the Prepped program, please contact: entrepreneurship@asu.edu

Cafe Emporos
Ruben Trujillo is the founder of Cafe Emporos, a company that specializes in personalized coffee and tea gifts. The business began as a small side project while he juggled his full-time job and other responsibilities, but after losing his job in 2020, Ruben was able to focus more on growing the company through social media. Cafe Emporos found success on TikTok after going viral multiple times. Cafe Emporos is the perfect way to add a personal touch to your next event. Whether you're looking for a unique corporate gift or a fun party favor, their customizable coffeegrams/teagrams are sure to impress. Each coffeegram includes your choice of photo or logo, along with a personalized message. With Cafe Emporos, you can be sure your guests will always remember your event!

Phoenix Coqui
Looking to bring the authentic flavors of Puerto Rico to the desert, Juan and Alexis launched Phoenix Coqui in the summer of 2017 after completing the ASU Prepped program. They were the first Puerto Rican food truck in Arizona and have become the most recognized name for Caribbean food in the valley. This year, they have expanded into their very first brick-and-mortar. They offer a variety of catering options including pick-up, delivery, full-service, and food truck catering. Their authentic Puerto Rican dishes include gluten-free, vegan, and vegetarian options.

Leyva's Tacos
Roger Leyva & Stephanie Holguin, husband and wife, started their business adventure in 2017. Roger learned his craft from his Dad, Ramiro Leyva, who did taco catering in California for over 16 years. Roger was just 6 years old when he would go with his dad and help him, shadow him, and serve at events once he was older. It’s something that Roger really enjoyed doing, and when they moved to Arizona in 2005, he continued with catering but just as a hobby for friends and family. In 2017, Roger and Stephanie took his hobby and turned it into a catering business, which has grown into a food truck and more taco stands over the last 5 years. Leyva’s Tacos is a family-owned and operated business based in the city of Buckeye that offers some of the most delicious street tacos with various meat options. They cater all over the Valley and attend various events with their food truck.

Hunger-Bomb Cookies
Tanya’s baking journey started as a little girl in a small kitchen in Clinton, Ohio. Her father’s sweet tooth forced Tanya and her mother to hide whatever treats they had in crazy places (sometimes even in the dishwasher!) so he would still eat his dinner. Her dad, Chuck, was always delighted with her creations, and a baker’s heart was born! Her love for baking developed into an interest in nutrition and wellness, and Tanya became a dietitian at the University of Akron. It was through her work as a corporate dietitian that the idea for “Hunger-Bombs” was born. Appalled at the unhealthy ingredients in typical desserts, Tanya decided that instead of giving up cookies, she would create one with great taste, and one that is nutritious as well! After months of perfecting the recipe, she finally made it; a cookie that fills you up, satisfies your sweet tooth, and doesn’t spike your blood sugar! She focuses on low-sugar, high fiber, and protein cookies and bars. There are a variety of healthy options available, including non-gluten, plant-based, and zero sugar/keto varieties.

Hot Sauce and Pepper
Tajia and AJ Diggs, the founders of Hot Sauce and Pepper, grew up with the love of soul food on their table. When they became vegan, they immediately began converting grandma's old recipes to vegan recipes and one day decided they cauliflower that even grandma would have loved. When it comes to bringing you authentic vegan food with love, they are THE BEST IN THE WEST! Hot Sauce and Pepper is the home of the cauliflower wings (they conveniently renamed them Caulifyah wings because these wings are FYAHHH), and they are proud to recreate soul food that is healthy, flavorful, made with real ingredients, and most of all, made with love.
